AGENDA

*Note: Schedule is subject to change.

MONDAY, MARCH 10, 2025

**Note: all presentations will be in the Dolly Madison Ballroom unless otherwise specified.*

10:00am—11:00am NWC BUDGET COMMITTEE MEETING (Room: TBD)

11:00am—12:00pm NWC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING (Room: TBD)

12:30pm—5:00pm REGISTRATION (Room: Dolly Madison Ballroom Foyer)

12:30pm—1:00pm NETWORKING WELCOME COFFEE

1:00pm—1:15pm WELCOME REMARKS

- Mr. Andrew Sinclair, NWC Chair (Port of Virginia)
- Ms. Julie Ufner, President and CEO, NWC

1:15pm—2:15pm NAVIGATING A NEW ADMINISTRATION AND THE 119TH CONGRESS:
POLITICAL INSIGHTS, STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS AND COST OF DOING BUSINESS IN DC

The new administration and the 119th Congress are reshaping the political and regulatory landscape, with shifting priorities and external pressures defining what's achievable both now and in the long term. This session will explore the key pain points for FY2025 and FY2026 appropriations, what might be coming down the pike, and how the newly created Department of Government Efficiency could influence funding, policy, and project timelines. Speakers will also tackle the balance between self-advocacy and engaging professional expertise, while offering a candid look at the real costs—both tangible and intangible—of staying engaged in Washington or choosing not to.

MODERATOR/SPEAKER: Mr. Geoff Bowman, Vice President, Van Scoyoc Associates

- Mr. Charles Brittingham, Senior Vice President, Cassidy and Associates
- Ms. Julie Minerva, Partner, Carpi & Clay
- Mr. James A. Sartucci, Government Affairs Counselor, K&L Gates

2:15pm—3:15pm

BREAKING DOWN SILOS: LEGISLATIVE AND REGULATORY PERSPECTIVES FOR 2025 AND BEYOND

This session will explore legislative and regulatory priorities for 2025 and beyond, bringing together diverse stakeholders from industries that intersect with water and waterways. Topics may include domestic oil production and its impact on operational costs and infrastructure; EPA regulations on stormwater, PFAS, wastewater, and emissions; challenges and opportunities for construction and agricultural producers relying on waterways to move goods to market; and more. By connecting perspectives from local governments, manufacturers, and agriculture, this session aims to foster cross-industry dialogue, identify shared challenges, and explore opportunities for collaboration across sectors.

MODERATOR:

- Mr. Jordan Howard, Counsel, Federal Construction and Regulatory Affairs, Associated General Contractors of America
- Ms. Judy Sheahan, Assistant Executive Director for the Environment, U.S. Conference of Mayors
- Mr. Mike Steenhoek, Executive Director, Soy Transportation Coalition
- Ms. Mary Youpel, Policy Advisor, American Petroleum Institute

3:15pm—3:30pm

NETWORKING

3:30pm—4:30pm

BUILDING BRIDGES: STRENGTHENING RELATIONSHIPS AND ADVANCING PROJECTS WITH USACE AND ON CAPITOL HILL

Great partnerships don't just happen—they're built. David Wethington, Chief of USACE's Future Directions Branch and a seasoned Capitol Hill insider, takes you behind the scenes to uncover the secrets of creating valuable, lasting relationships with the USACE Civil Works program. While WRDA is a cornerstone of the conversation, this session dives deeper into how non-federal sponsors, stakeholders, and Congress can work together to turn ambitious plans into actionable projects. Discover the power of the "triangle approach," where collaboration between Congress, USACE, and stakeholders creates a win-win formula for success. Whether you're aiming to influence WRDA 2026 or simply want to build stronger connections, Dave's insights will equip you with the tools to engage effectively and make an impact.

- Mr. David Wethington, Chief of Future Directions Branch, USACE

4:30pm—5:00pm

APPROPRIATIONS IN FLUX: KEY DYNAMICS FOR FY2025 & FY2026***

*With Congress still navigating FY2025 funding and the FY2026 budget process beginning, this session will take a high-level look at the behind-the-scenes dynamics shaping federal appropriations. Modeled after our EPW and T&I insider baseball discussions, it will explore committee negotiations, political pressures, and key issues to watch as funding decisions unfold. **We have invited Capitol Hill appropriations staff, though their availability depends on the status of the March 14 continuing resolution (CR) deadline.

- Ms. Kathleen "Katie" Williams, Professional Staff Member (Majority), Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development, Committee on Appropriations, U.S. Senate (invited)
- Ms. Laura Powell, Professional Staff Member (Minority), Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development, Committee on Appropriations, U.S. Senate (invited)

- Mr. Richie O’Connell, Professional Staff Member (Majority), Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development, Committee on Appropriations, U.S. House of Representatives (invited)

7:30am—8:30am      CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST

8:30am—9:15am      NWC LEGISLATIVE POLICY COMMITTEE MEETING

9:15am—10:30am      NAVIGATING ENVIRONMENTAL AND LEGAL SHIFTS: WHAT’S NEXT FOR WATER/WATERWAYS RESOURCE INFRASTRUCTURE?

The legal and regulatory landscape for water and waterways infrastructure is rapidly evolving, with new court rulings, shifting federal policies, and agency priorities reshaping project permitting, funding, and compliance. This session brings together top legal and policy experts to examine key developments, including Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) actions on per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), stormwater regulations, and the Waters of the United States (WOTUS) rule; the 2025 Executive Order (EO) freezing grant and loan funding; and the Water Resources Development Act of 2024 (WRDA 2024)’s elevation of water supply in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) Civil Works program. With litigation shaping regulations and vice versa, what legal and policy shifts should stakeholders anticipate? Join us for a practical discussion on the intersections of litigation, regulation, and infrastructure policy, and how these changes could impact long-term planning and investment in water resource projects.

- Ms. Susan Bodine Esq., Partner, E&W Law
